

P-18: Sustainable Development at Swiss Higher Education Institutions – Student Projects

In the scope of the network for transdisciplinary research (td-net) at the Swiss Academies of Arts and Sciences, this program supports projects and collaboration between students at the various Swiss higher education institutions in the areas of sustainable development and education to promote sustainability. During the period 2017–2020, the program funds projects selected from a competitive call for:

- a) Student projects on sustainable development for students at one or more higher education institutions;
- b) Supportive platforms for student projects on sustainable development at one or more higher education institutions.

On the occasion of the annual Sustainability Day at Swiss higher education institutions (yearly conference), students have the opportunity to meet their peers and exchange ideas and experiences. Other networking activities are planned with funding from third parties.
